DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE AND RURAL DEVELOPMENT

The stated mission of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development is: "Assure the food safety, agricultural, environmental, and economic interests of the people of the state of Michigan are met through service, partnership, and collaboration." The department's stated priorities are: Assure food safety; protect animal and plant health; sustain environmental stewardship; provide consumer protection; enable rural development; and foster efficient administrative operations.

*The department was established by Public Act 13 of 1921 to "foster and promote in every possible way the agricultural interests of this state". The respective powers and duties of the department and the commission were redefined in Chapter 8 of the Executive Reorganization Act of 1965 (enacted following the ratification of the 1963 Constitution), and more recently by Executive Orders 2009-45 and 2009-54. Executive Order 2009-45 gave to the Governor the power to appoint the Department Director, a power previously held by the Commission. Executive Order 2011-2 changed the name of the department to the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development (MDARD), changed the name of the Commission to the Commission of Agriculture and Rural Development, and rescinded some provisions of Executive Order 2009-54.

Animal disease prevention and response – 62.0 FTE positions

$9,669,700

Supports staff and other operating costs of the Animal Industry Division (AID), including the position of State Veterinarian. During the 2019-2020 legislative session, the Animal Industry Act was amended by 2019 PA 132.

The ADSRC program works to protect public health and the health of domestic animals; the program monitors and works to eradicate animal diseases in order to facilitate import and export of healthy livestock and to protect the food supply. The program also licenses and regulates various animal industries including livestock dealers. The Electronic Identification (EID) program allows for the tracing of livestock movement.

Program activities are supported in part through multiple USDA cooperative agreements.

Bovine Tuberculosis (TB) is one of the largest AID programs, accounting for over one-half of AID activity. The department has had a dedicated Bovine TB program since 1995 when the disease was first identified in the Lower Peninsula free-ranging white-tailed deer population. Program activities include testing and surveillance, livestock movement tracing through electronic identification and record review, depopulation and disposal of infected animals, indemnification of livestock owners, on-farm assistance, wildlife mitigation, and herd reconciliation; herd testing is performed by private veterinarians under contract with the department (fee based). The department coordinates program activities with the Department of Natural Resources; the department also collaborates with the USDA under terms of the December 16, 2019 Memorandum of Understanding and Cooperative Funding Agreement.

Michigan is described as having “split-state status.” That is to say, while most of the state is considered TB-free, four counties in northeastern lower Michigan have not yet moved to TB-Free status. Producers within these four counties, and surrounding counties, are subject to additional herd testing and restrictions on the movement of cattle.
