

WMU's Unified Clinics
provide specialty care
to thousands.

WESTERN MICHIGAN
UNIVERSITY

What are the Unified Clinics?

Through WMU's Unified Clinics, student clinicians and supervising faculty provide specialty care to thousands in Michigan annually.

The Unified Clinics are a large multi-specialty group practice that provides a broad scope of specialized health care and social services for thousands of patients. In addition, the clinics offer real-world clinical training experiences for hundreds of students from WMU's College of Health and Human Services. The faculty and students who work in the clinics are committed to meeting genuine community needs.

5,400
PATIENTS

▶

MORE THAN
50,000
VISITS PER YEAR

The 10 clinics include:

- Behavioral Health Services
- Southwest Michigan Children's Trauma Assessment Center
- Van Riper Language and Speech Clinic
- Aphasia Communication Enhancement Program
- Voice and Respiration Lab
- Van Riper Hearing Clinic
- Spear Occupational Therapy Clinic
- Women's Health Services
- Vision Clinic
- Western Evaluation Center for Autism and Neurodevelopmental Disorders

Practicing clinicians are faculty experts and students

Clinics are established based on community need

Patients are seen as early as birth up to 100+

The clinics treat 5,000+ patients annually

The Unified Clinics became a multi-specialty group practice in 1995, but some clinics have existed for more than 50 years