prepare. prevent. protect.

“We provide presidential level protection for your school.”

Who We Are

We are a team of former secret service and law enforcement leaders with decades of experience building preventative security programs for our nation's more senior officials. But more importantly, we are parents. Our mission is to provide presidential-level protection for your kids. We're proud to have helped protect nearly 100,000 American students in all 50 states.

What We Do

Although most schools have safety and security policies and procedures in place, the vast majority are under-prepared for a real emergency. Bringing decades of Secret Service experience and modern security expertise, SEC develops comprehensive, prevention-focused safety and security programs for schools. When it comes to protecting those who matter most, our mission is to treat your kids like the president. Our array of services is intended to give your organization an actionable, layered security posture.

Our Services

On-Site

Site Assessment

An SEC consultant will come onsite to inspect every aspect of your facility and provide a custom report, identifying strengths and vulnerabilities, including access controls, cover and concealment, and power and utility issues.

Critical Incident Response Training

An essential component of emergency preparedness is training staff on how to effectively respond to a critical incident. During SEC's multi-hazard training program, an SEC consultant will train staff on physiological responses that occur during emergencies, how to combat the debilitating impact of those responses, and best practices for crises or acts of violence.

Emergency Preparedness Planning

Most schools have emergency plans, but they are often out-of-date and too generic to be effective. Our consultant will help develop a unique emergency response plan (ERP), which can be rapidly customized for each school or facility.
